RIB BROKEN IN RUNAWAY

WHEN WAGON HITS TREE
William C. Santo of Plain Hill is at the Backus hospital suffering with a broken rib and what is feared to be a fractured hip as the result of a runaway near the old Adams tavern at Norwich Tuesday evening. Mr. Santo was driving alone when his horse suddenly became frightened and bolted. The wagon struck a tree on the right hand side of the road, breaking one of the forward wheels and throwing the occupants to the ground. Mr. Santo struck on his side, fracturing a rib. Mrs. Santo and her daughter escaped without injury. A passing automobile took Mr. Santo to the hospital. Mrs. Santo and daughter went to the home of some relatives in Norwich town.

After the crash the horse freed itself from the wagon and when last seen was headed for home. The demolished wagon was removed to the yard of Alexander Kilroy.

CAMP MASSAPEQUAT BOYS

WERE FIRING BLANK CARTRIDGES
The shooting of blank cartridge pistols and other explosives before the Fourth of July is to be strictly forbidden, and the local police are warning the boys of Camp Massapequatt at Gardner Lake, the camp of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., were prematurely celebrating the Fourth of July under the windows of the police station, as an inopportune place as they could pick. Their celebration was short lived, however, for after the police learned there was no more, for an officer brought them into the station for an interview with Capt. D. J. Twomey.

After instructing the boys about the law, they were allowed to go back to the lake, but they left the pistol and blank cartridges on Captain Twomey's desk for safe keeping until the Fourth.

PENSION AND RETIREMENT

FIRE WARNING FOR FOURTH OF JULY

This Fourth of July promises to be an unusually hazardous one for the fire line, according to the views of Chief Howard L. Stanton, who has thought it well to issue warning and advice for the day. Stanton, who is more firecracker and fireworks expert than any other in the city, has passed into the discard and, according to the chief, there are more firecrackers and other forms of fireworks on sale in Norwich this year than there have been for a long time on the Fourth. All the indications point to a large sale of fireworks.

The dry season that the city has been experiencing from the standpoint of rain is another element in the hazardous situation as Norwich is a city of shingle roofs and of course these are all so dry that they will catch fire should any burst of wind or pieces of firecrackers land on them.

Chief Stanton issued the following: A Few Suggestions on How to Protect Your Property on July 4th.

- 1—Have your premises, yards and alleys ways, thoroughly cleaned of all old rubbish and papers, straw, etc., and removed to the dumping ground or destroyed.
- 2—If you have a telephone in your home or place of business it may be quicker to telephone to some fire station, being careful to give the correct locality and number of the house.
- 3—Place the numbers of the fire department telephones on your instrument so as to be ready. These should always be there ready for emergency.
- 4—Connect your garden hose and have it ready. Also bring your ladder from the barn and have it ready to get to the roof of your house where most of the trouble will be.
- 5—Finally be on the alert, as the sale of fireworks is increasing and the number of fires July 4th is increasing with the sale, remembering that Norwich is a city of shingle roofs.

HOWARD L. STANTON,
Chief of Fire Department.

SIX-CHURCHES CONFERENCE

The conference of the six congregational churches of Preston, Grosfield, Jewett, Otis, Plainfield and Libon, was held Wednesday at Libon. At this important meeting of the summer there were nearly two hundred present from all the country round the world.

These services, which are always of the most attractive and instructive sort, were in charge of Rev. W. J. Reynolds, pastor of the entertaining parish. The first attraction was the beautiful floral displays about the altar, among which were noted bee-balm, larkspur, peonies, geraniums and roses, pink white and red, including the handsome crimson rambler and the beautiful Dorothy Perkins roses.

The music in charge of Frank E. Hyde, chorister and organist, is always the best and never fails to prove an inspiration. Wednesday the musical part was augmented by a bass solo by Rev. Myron D. Fuller, his selection, Joy For Today.

The prayer at the opening repeated in union was one of a chain of prayers. This one in particular was given with a clear record of having been offered first in the year 121 A. D.: Give us, O Lord, purity of life, clean and innocent hearts, and rectitude of action; give us humility, patience, self-control, prudence, justice, and courage; give us the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and strength, the spirit of knowledge and godliness, and of Thy fear: make us ever to seek Thy face with all our heart, all our soul, and all our mind; grant us to have a contrite and humble heart in Thy presence, to prefer nothing to Thy love. Have mercy upon us, we humbly beseech Thee; through Jesus our Lord. Amen.

After prayer by Rev. W. Payne, the address of the morning was given by Rev. Robert Humphrey of Canterbury. He took for his theme presented subject, The Give and Take of Life, and spoke along the line of what measure we meet to others it shall be meted to you again. He said there should be two parties placed in every transaction in life, that a good day's pay demands and should receive a good day's work. His remarks were illustrated by a number of applicable stories touching the point in question. Outstanding among them, a farmer's wife went to the grocer for a pound of sugar, when she arrived home she found the sugar two ounces short in weight. Her husband was much excited and called the grocer to account severely for selling short weight pounds of sugar. The grocer told the irate man that when he sold the sugar he had mislaid his one pound weight, so he had made use of one of the farmer's pounds of butter as a weight.

The first of the afternoon addresses was by Rev. Allan Gates of Scotland. His subject, Christian Salesmanship, was handled with a convincing argument. Contradictory to the statement of Rogers Babson, the famous Wellesley Hills, financial statistician, that the church has the goods but doesn't know how to sell them.

An aeroplane was seen flying over the city about 5:15 Wednesday afternoon. It came from the south, circled around over the center of the city and went off to the south again.

THIEVES LUG OFF TWO
HALF REGS OF HORSESHOES
Horsehoes seem to be the latest attraction for thieves, as a report was made at police headquarters on Wednesday evening that the blacksmith shop of H. C. Lane in Durkee lane had been entered recently and two half regs of horsehoes had been stolen. The stolen horsehoes were found at the front and the other for the hind feet. The door had apparently been forced open.

THE GATE OF SUMMER

The lovely gate of summer—Love's hand—Have thrown it wide—The lily-of-the-valley cups its beautiful bloom inside—The wind-floods the meadows, and the pastures are so cool—Where stand the lazy cattle a knee-deep in the pool—Come in, the birds are singing—And ye who enter here—Shall find your memories winging To dreams of yesteryear!

The blossom of the apples and the peaches and the pears—Have long ago departed, but the round fruit is there;—The blueberry bushes starlike with their foam of bloomy snow—The gates of summer beckon, let us pack our hearts and go!—Go, ah, yes, to follow—Every gypsy trail that keeps its pattern through the hollow—And upon the balmy steppes!

We'll sail the sunrise river, we'll seek the sunset sea—We'll find the honeysuckle lane, the green persimmon tree;—We'll seek the fairy roses and hunt the vine pattern through the hollow—And in the garden close reveal the melon vine!

Thy melody blow about us,—But oh, the gates of summer—The blueberry bushes starlike with their foam of bloomy snow—The gates of summer beckon, let us pack our hearts and go!—Go, ah, yes, to follow—Every gypsy trail that keeps its pattern through the hollow—And upon the balmy steppes!

With ails her needle threading, Picked from the rainbow's skein, Her blue her gentle tinges, Golden her cheeks, her hair, Kissing her cheek May's wandering wind Inconstancy forgoes.

She hangs her veil fringes Of mauve and violets; With blue her gentle tinges, Golden her cheeks, her hair, Kissing her cheek May's wandering wind Inconstancy forgoes.

Wreathed by young June with roses, Blushing she dreams apart, Waits for the twilight glow, Her spouse with his heart, O look, that his soul be true, Song of her soul thou art.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Nobles—Honesty is the best policy. The thief suffers in the end, for he loses his soul. Kissing her cheek May's wandering wind Inconstancy forgoes.
